WAR OF FRANCE ENDS; BRITAIN FACES GERMANS

Air Fighters Carry on With Renewed Fury

Powerful French Fleet May Not Surrender To Nazis; Part of Navy Still In British Naval Base In Mediterranean

(By Associated Press)

German and British bombing planes struck with renewed fury today as peace stilled the battlefields of vanquished France and a total of some 5,000,000 French, German and Italian soldiers quietly obeyed the "Cease firing!" order.

First definite indication that the powerful French fleet, second strongest in Europe, does not intend to surrender—as stipulated in the Franco-German armistice—came from Alexandria, Egypt.

Part of the French fleet still remained in the Egyptian port, Britain's main naval base in the Mediterranean.

The cessation of hostilities on the western front and in the maritime Alps came while the rest of Europe slept.

There were few outbursts of joy—none of the whooping shouts of fraternization that marked the end of hostilities in the World war on Nov. 11, 1918.

Italian infantrymen merely stacked their rifles and sat down on the mountainsides to drink hot coffee and wine. Artillerymen left their still-smoking cannons to cool their comrades.

Some Italians called across the Alpine snow to French Poilus, but there was no answer.

Terms Undisclosed
The combined Nazi-Fascist onslaught against France halted at 12:45 a. m. today (6:35 p. m., EST yesterday), with the terms of the axis-dictated armistice still officially undisclosed.

Berlin reported that the conquerors' demands comprised 24 paragraphs and that they were "hard, but not humiliating" for France.

According to best available figures, France originally had 2,780,000 soldiers engaged in the conflict. Germany sent some 2,000,000 men into France and Italy about 750,000. Casualty figures were still unavailable but were expected to be high.

The German high command announced that in the last day of fighting, Hitler's armies advanced to Royan and Angoulême, 500 miles north of Bordeaux on France's west coast, and captured St. Etienne, 50 miles south of Lyon, in eastern France.

Bombers Trade Blows
While Nazi warplanes bombed England—the German high command said the attack was aimed against British airports—British bombers attacked the Ruhr, Germany's rich industrial region, and plastered high explosives on a series of German-held airdromes in Holland.

Calls For "Calm, Resolute Voice and a Big Stick"

Declaring that the United States must build immediately defense forces strong enough to beat off any attack upon the western hemisphere, youthful Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, above, asserted in his keynote address at the first night session of the Republican national convention in Philadelphia that "our foreign policy has been one of a big noise and a little stick" while the nation needs again "a calm, resolute voice and a big stick." Governor Stassen is shown facing the battery of radio microphones on the speakers' rostrum as he delivered the address.

FDR CALLS OFF SALE OF BOATS

Deal Criticized by Congress Halted by Attorney General

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The projected transfer of 20 "mosquito" boats to Great Britain—a transaction which drew outspoken criticism in congress—has been cancelled by President Roosevelt.

The President's action destroyed British hopes of acquiring the 111 destroyers which the navy has left over from World war days, for he based his decision on a law prohibiting the delivery of American built war vessels to a belligerent.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered negotiations for the "mosquito" boat transfer halted last yesterday, after studying an informal opinion from Attorney General Jackson. The attorney general held that British acquisition of the craft—originally ordered for the U. S. navy—would violate a law enacted in 1917, when the United States and Britain were allies.

Before the order was issued, Secretary Edison disclosed that there had been "pressure" on the navy to sell its World war destroyer flotilla, but to no avail.

Keep Combatant Vessels
"We are keeping all our combatant vessels," he said, but did not mention the law later cited by the President. Edison discussed the attempt to purchase the destroyers at his final press conference before quitting the navy department to run for governor of New Jersey.

The "mosquito" boat transaction first became public a week ago. Assistant Navy Secretary Compton said that on his own responsibility he had authorized waiving of delivery on the craft. Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, subsequently said that the decision had White House approval. Compton contended that the navy would benefit by acquiring later type vessels.

Censure was immediately forthcoming in congress. Chairman Walcott (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee called the negotiations "surprising" and said the transfer might jeopardize national interests if war should come.

In ending the "mosquito" boat negotiations, Mr. Roosevelt stated the navy had requested his action because of the attorney general's opinion.

City and county officials were notified today by State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood of the amounts they may expect from the federal relief appropriation.

Distribution of the funds, intended to make up the state's 50 per cent share of expenditures for relief during the last half of 1939, will be made about July 10.

Disbursement to Salem totals $590 and to East Liverpool, $3,598. Columbiana county's total is $7,753 and Mahoning county, $4,390.

Salem's relief program was assured last fall when voters approved a one-mill levy for indigent care.

$3,000 Contributed In Red Cross Drive

The Salem chapter of the Red Cross today announced that 75 per cent of its quota of $4,000 for relief of war sufferers abroad has been subscribed.

The local chapter has sent another $500 to the national headquarters, to be transformed into food, clothing, medical supplies and other necessities, making a total of $3,000 from the city.

This leaves $1,000 to be obtained by the local chapter. Officials renewed appeals to Salem people to put the campaign over the top.

ABSOLUTISM IS HIT BY MARTIN

Convention Chairman Attacks Drift to "One-Man Government"

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts is charged the Roosevelt administration today with a seven-year "march toward one-man government."

Accepting the post of permanent chairman of the Republican national convention, he declared:

"Every ideal of Americanism has been imperiled by those who would make our government and our nation tools to be manipulated by one man at the head of a great and unrelenting political bureaucracy."

"The time has come to end all this if we are to continue to live as a free people."

Hits Drift Toward Absolutism
Martin asserted that "a steady drift toward governmental absolutism both at home and abroad" must be checked this year, and declared the purpose of his party's convention to be "to rally all patriots in a crusade for Americanism."

"For seven anxious years," he said, "we have seen this march toward one-man government."

"The record is a sordid story of failure and futility and broken promises. And there is much reason to believe we may yet wake up to find we have been pushed into war."

That is the second of the New Deal. That record will never be approved by the American people."

"We have had managed economy with neither management nor economy. Vast sums of money—sums too vast to be comprehended by the human mind—have been scattered about with reckless abandon. Under the cloak of emergency and distress the American people have been ruthlessly exploited. Today the administration is bewildered by the effects of its own irresponsible conduct."

"Hour of Crisis"
The convention chairman declared that the nation has reached "an hour of crisis and decision," but that its problems—both foreign and domestic—could be solved without "a ruinous war or ruinous debt."

"Turning to foreign policy, he said that Republicans stand 'four-square' in determination to have a military force 'amply able to protect our shores, to defend our people and ideals from any foe who might challenge our determination to work out our destiny peacefully in the American way.'"

"We want America at peace with the world; an America unshaken by hatreds and fears," he added.

The Jaycees again this year are planning their trip to Cleveland at which time they will take several Salem boys to see a major league baseball game. The trip probably will be made sometime in July.

Plans for a picnic next month are being mapped by a committee headed by Atty Pitch. Dr. Harwood is chairman of an August dance committee.

The Standard Oil safety car will be brought to Salem July 9, 10 and 12, under the auspices of the Junior Chamber.

Meadowbrook Will Hold Annual Rally
The annual reunion of Meadowbrook school No. 6 will be held Saturday, June 29, at Dunn Eden park on the N. Elkwood rd.

GOP Resolutions Will Be Delayed

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Chairman Herbert K. Hyde announced today that the resolutions committee would be unable to complete its work on the party platform in time for scheduled presentation to the Republican national convention tonight.

Hyde said the committee hoped it would be ready by tomorrow noon.

Franklyn Waltman, Republican publicity director, declined to comment on reports that controversy had developed over the foreign policy plank. One committee member, however, said that virtually all of today's discussion behind closed doors had centered on this section which in preliminary form had been described as clearly "non-interventionist."

QUINCY STAYS AT MONTEVIDEO
U. S. Sending Second Warship To South America As Rumblings Of Nazi Plot Are Heard

MONTEVIDEO, June 25.—The 10,000-ton U. S. cruiser Quincy stayed overtime in Montevideo harbor today and anxious Uruguay, investigating possibility of a Nazi-planned revolt, cheered the news that a second U. S. warship is on the way.

Orders from Washington to keep the Quincy here and word that the seventh squadron flagship Wichita will arrive Saturday from Rio de Janeiro came within a few hours after the chamber of deputies acted in secret session last night to stamp out subversive activities.

Three other units of the U. S. fleet, the battleships Arkansas, Texas and New York, arrived last night at La Guaira, the port for Caracas, Venezuela. They were reported to be on a training cruise, with a large party of midshipmen aboard.

Observers in Montevideo interpreted the presence of the Quincy and expected arrival of the Wichita as signs that the United States would back up the government in whatever safeguards are adopted.

There has been concern that Germany might take reprisals if stern measures were adopted on a special commission's report that Uruguay Nazis, influenced from abroad, planned to set up a little Nazi state in this vulnerable section of South America.

Re-check Workers On Payroll of WPA
LISBON, June 25.—A re-check of all Work Projects Administration employees in Columbiana county will be started within a few days, H. A. Moore, certifying agent, stated today, whereby each applicant for employment or employee paid from funds appropriated for WPA must sign an affidavit of citizenship.

Under the affidavit required by the emergency relief appropriation act of the fiscal year 1941, the applicant or employee must state whether he is a citizen of the United States, or "that I am not a citizen but owe allegiance to the United States;" (2) That I do not and will not advocate or hold membership in any organization that advocates overthrow of the government of the United States; and (3) That I am not an alien, nor a Communist, nor a member of any Nazi bund organization, and that I will not become a Communist or a member of any Nazi bund organization during any time I may be paid from funds appropriated to the Works Projects Administration.

The convention quickly adopted the report of the credentials committee which had upheld the national committee in throwing out all state delegation contests. The action gave convention seats to the following contested groups:

The J. Leonard Replogle group from Florida; the John E. Jackson delegation from Louisiana; the Perry W. Howard faction from Mississippi; and the J. Bates Gerald faction from South Carolina.

Seating of the Gerald group meant denial of a seat to 74-year-old Joseph W. "Thelless Joe" Tolbert and his ten-man delegation. Tolbert has been a leader in the Republican party in his state for 50 years.

Willkie Wages Fight To Counter "Stop Willkie" Talk

(By Associated Press)

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts took command of the Republican convention today and called upon his party to rally against "a steady drift toward governmental absolutism."

A convention torn by the conflict of opposing candidates cheered wildly as the blunt New Englander took up the gavel to pound the way to a platform decision and a presidential candidate.

The nomination fight tightened with a statement from Thomas E. Dewey's manager and from former Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, denying delegates were falling away from Dewey and with Wendell Willkie moving from delegation to delegation in a personal effort to counter "Stop Willkie" talk.

Gannett Claims 25
Headquarters of Frank E. Gannett, New York publisher, claimed a bloc of 25 votes, after early balloting for Hanford MacNider of Iowa, from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, N. Dakota and S. Dakota.

The supporters of Senator Taft of Ohio had in no way slowed their drive. Each delegate found a Taft carnation in his seat this morning when he came to the hall.

Downward evidence of controversy in drafting the 1940 platform, centered on the important foreign policy plank, developed when Chairman Herbert K. Hyde announced his resolutions committee would be unable to report to the convention tonight.

Even before the first thin stream of delegates had begun to move into the big convention hall, Willkie told delegates of his native Indiana in a breakfast talk that he was "discouraging other candidates," but on the contrary thought they were "all fine men."

Sees 400 Votes
In a press conference, J. Russell Sprague, Dewey's manager, said he was standing by his prediction of 400 Dewey votes on the first ballot and forecast an increase of "at least 50" on the second. Sprague agreed there had been some "fluctuations" in delegate line-ups.

Willkie used the occasion of the Indiana talk to say "the utility issue" had been raised against him, and added:

"Surely the Republican party will not want to engage in the New Deal custom of raising class distinctions. I have been investigated by every New Deal agency. If you can find any successful accusation against me, I want you to be against me."

The day's first session finally got underway at 10:30 a. m. (EST) and the Rev. Paul H. Andreen, pastor of the Kokoto Lutheran church, Kokoto, Minn., led the delegates in prayer.

Muriel Dickson, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, sang the Star Spangled Banner to a piano accompaniment.

The convention quickly adopted the report of the credentials committee which had upheld the national committee in throwing out all state delegation contests. The action gave convention seats to the following contested groups:

SPOTLIGHT ON PHILADELPHIA

Republicans gathered in Philadelphia for the quadrennial convocation must share attention this year with war, a contrast with the usual convention atmosphere which was a kind of carnival diversion to break up the midsummer doldrums. There are no doldrums to be broken up this summer.

A party convention is a strange and wonderful thing, strange because it's a combination of all the temerity and wisdom that go with popular government, wonderful because every time it happens it leaves all participants wondering what hit them, yet they're always willing to go back for more.

The Republican party has momentous things to decide in its convention. When Democrats hold their convention they will have momentous things to decide, too. Sometimes the public loses sight of the fact that the kind of government it cherishes originates in major party conventions, which have no official status.

Men and issues are their products. Everything else is a byproduct, like the profit of the hotel keepers and eating house proprietors in convention cities. The country awaits a Republican standard bearer and the party's statement of principles.

FRANCE UNITED

At last there is only one political objective remaining in France—release from the humiliating terms of surrender imposed by its enemy. Germany has fallen heir to the problem which France assumed at Versailles: How to keep a proud nation helpless.

The French tried various expedients. They imposed crushing peace terms. They formed a complicated network of alliances and buffer states. They adopted a policy of non-cooperation in moves to restore Germany's sense of dignity. On occasion, they even tried friendship.

But Germany refused to remain weak. Popular restlessness created a breeding ground for revolutionary movements. One of these movements resulted in Hitlerism, dedicated openly to the proposition that Germany should have revenge.

Unable to meet this new situation, due largely to the schemes it had devised with a view to meeting it some day, the French stood by helplessly while Germany prepared to take revenge. In desperation it pinned its hopes on a perfect defense. When the defense proved imperfect, France cracked. Almost overnight all its internal squabbles, plots and differences were made meaningless by the great reality of defeat at the hands of Germany—and what was most humiliating, the necessity of coming to terms with Italy, which France could have beaten to a standstill if it had begun the job last September.

Perhaps Germany will be able to keep France helpless. It might even be able to keep France from resenting helplessness, but no one is able to imagine Germany forgetting rancor long enough to let its crushed opponent dream of anything but revenge. The famous railroad coach which has become the scene of another presentation of the terms of armistice when the exhausted belligerents of Europe have had time to catch their breath again.

A PLAN FOR A STRONGER AMERICA

There now is an immediate and compelling reason why congress should remain in active session. A bill for a system of compulsory military training and service has been presented for discussion.

This bill presents a vital issue in debatable form. The issue is whether it is better for the United States to train an adequate, equitably chosen portion of its manpower in preparation for a possible emergency, or to wait until an emergency is at hand before preparing to meet it.

Sponsors of the measure say it like this: "There are only two courses open to us. We can neglect our defenses and live with a sense of insecurity and panic always just under the surface, watching the temper and fearing the reactions of the strong and aggressive, or we can tighten our belts, arm ourselves in full against possible conflict and live, not on sufferance and in fear but with the steady integrity of conscious strength. The first course is demoralizing and wretched; the second course alone is possible, and an essential link in the pursuit of that course is the obligatory training of an adequate, justly chosen portion of our manpower."

The bill provides for registration of male citizens and aliens between the ages of 18 and 65, with certain exceptions. Registrants would be divided into two categories—those between 21 and 45 liable for training and those between 18 and 21 and between 45 and 65 liable only for home defense. From the first group would be drawn by lot as many men as would be needed to man defense services, with a careful, selective process of exemption to assure a minimum of economic disruption.

It is a sweeping proposition, not a halfway measure. In fact, it embodies all the grim reality of adequate national defense which Americans prefer to keep concealed with big talk and small action. But if the people of this country honestly believe in doing what is necessary to make it as strong as it needs to be to discourage an aggressor there is no other answer.

No better way to find out what the United States is willing to do could be devised than to hold adequate debate on such a bill. Critics would have to come forth with objections and counter-proposals. Defenders of adequate defense would have to quit sending up trial balloons and furtively taking the public pulse. Opinion would be crystallized. Uncertainty would be stopped. Notice would be given to the world at large that one representative government had enough foresight and courage to face reality with its eyes open.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, June 26.

The astral auguries are for a particularly lively and enterprising day, with much stirring of an entirely unforeseen nature. There may be sudden occurrences calling for a change of plans, objectives and possibly scenes of operation. While these arrangements should culminate in unlooked-for advantage, with innovation and audacity proving the test of speculation or adventure, yet there is need for vigilance against snares, intrigue or other undercover tactics. There should be much felicity in intimate affections.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of surprises and unpredictable events, affecting all manner of new experiences in business as well as private life. Opportunity and lure in the direction of new pastures may result in reorientation of the life and its purpose, all to culminate in progress, surprising fulfillments with perhaps romance and adventure. But in all there is a menace from duplicity, intrigue and deep-laid schemes to be alert to, since they are viciously undermining.

A child born on this day may be progressive, enterprising, romantic and adventurous, with a strong bent toward the new, untried and experimental both in intellectual and sound business projects. Its danger is from deception or intriguing entanglements.

There is a growing sentiment in this country that we must keep our properties at whatever cost. We'd be in a pretty mess without freedom to howl our displeasures or hallelujah the joys of the heart. We have a priceless heritage to protect.

All Gaul Is Again Divided In Three Parts!

This map shows how the once great republic of France may look when the French conclude armistice terms with Italy. The northern and western sections, enclosed in heavy borderlines, are to be completely occupied by German forces. The shaded area in the south and southeastern sections it is believed will be occupied by Italy. This would leave a small inland "land," cut off from all major French cities and important industrial and rich agricultural areas—a mere remnant of old France. Today, Hitler and Mussolini may triumphantly repeat the historic words of Julius Caesar: "All Gaul (ancient name for France) is divided in three parts."

Thin Man Is Given Clue

He'll Fatten If He Eats, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
EVERY TIME I publish a list of diets for overweight, which I do about once a year, I get a long list of complaints, the burden of which is "You're talking about the overweight. Why don't you do something for us underweights, those of us who are thin and can't seem to fatten up?"

There are really almost as many of them as there are of the overweight, although they are not so conspicuous, so I am going to publish some advice and a list of diets for underweights during the next few weeks.

One thing the underweight patient does not seem to realize is that it takes just as much work and self-denial to gain weight as it does to lose it. The overweight patient knows that it is going to be hard on him and is prepared to make some sacrifices, but the underweight patient seems to think that he can take some vitamin tablets or some other mysterious kind of magic and he will begin to gain weight automatically. This is not true. He has to work for his advantages.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Do You Eat Enough?

As in the case of the overweight patient, there are two distinct kinds of underweights. In the smaller group are those who have some organic or physiological cause for their underweight. These may be hidden or difficult of assessment. Of course the conspicuous one is tuberculosis. Cases of diabetes may go unrecognized for a long time and be cause of underweight. Conditions of the digestive glands, such as Simmonds' Disease, and adrenal insufficiency, may cause abnormal thinness; also certain nervous conditions, or asthenia.

In most instances, however, underweight is due to the fact that the individual does not eat enough. Just as overweight is largely due to too much eating, it is really very simple. I have several doctor friends who are interested in nutrition and several of them are quite thin. With one accord they say that their leanness is no mystery; that they simply do not like to eat and they look on me, and people like me, with fine appetites, with a kind of envy. They estimate that they instinctively eat about one-third as much as another person of the same age and height.

Sample Diet
Three days a week, for a time, we will publish in this column a daily menu of a diet planned to increase weight. They contain at least 3500 calories per diem. They are balanced as to minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

Breakfast: Cantaloupe; wheatena with cream; bread and butter; glass milk, one-half cream.

Mid-morning: Chocolate malted milk.

Lunch: Steak sandwich; fresh broccoli; baked tomatoes with cheese; Italian bread with butter; black coffee.

Mid-afternoon: Glass of egg-nog.

Dinner: Antipasto; roast Italian spaghetti; assorted fruits; coffee with cream and sugar; cheese and crackers.

Evening: Cream custard.

Approximate value—3,700 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
T. M.—Is it advisable for one who has chronic asthma to be near animals?

Answer—Chronic asthma can be caused by animal dandruff, the commonest form being sensitivity to horse dander; rabbits, cats and dogs come next, and birds may be the guilty parties. A person with chronic asthma should have a determination made with a patch test to see if the asthma is due to sensitivity to a particular animal dander.

L. H.—Will drinking carbonated water which contains sodium and lithium stimulate and be injurious to the heart?

Answer—No. Carbonated water containing sodium and lithium is generally considered to be very healthy. Taken by mouth these salts do not affect the heart in any way because the body is able, by its internal mechanism, to form a balance. Excess of these salts introduced directly into the blood, does have an effect on the heart muscle.

H. E. D.—My dentist tells me the reason my teeth decay at the bottom is because of acid in my mouth. My mouth tastes very bitter at times and I wondered if you could tell me if it is possible to combat this acidity. Is it caused by my tonsils?

Answer—A good way to determine whether your mouth is really acid is to take some litmus paper and moisten it with saliva. If blue litmus paper turns red, the mouth is acid. It is very unusual, however, to have continuous acidity in the mouth, and it is probably due to infection, either pyorrhea, or possibly from the tonsils.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

Gabrielle drove by the old apartment where she and Peter had lived before she wedded her way home. She didn't know quite why she did this for it seemed like probing an old wound. At the same time though it seemed to give her a melancholy satisfaction.

She had no sooner gotten home than the telephone rang and she called to Violet in the kitchen to tell her that she'd answer it.

"Ah'm sure glad. Dat's all Ah been doin' all mornin', answerin' dat pesky phone." Violet grumbled gratefully.

It was Dorothy, wanting to know about Sam. Gabrielle's postponed trip to New York, and also if there was anything she might do to help.

Gabrielle told her everything except how bad she was feeling over her postponed trip. Dorothy could guess that.

"We're having a bunch over to-morrow night, Gabby. Will you come? We thought it would be fun to have the gang here to listen to Peter."

"Sorry, Dot, but Mother will need me here."

"But aren't you even going to listen to Peter?"

"Oh, probably so," conceded Gabrielle as unconcernedly as possible.

"You're just covering up, but it's all right, Gabby! I understand—I don't blame you for wanting to listen to him by yourself."

"There were tears in Gabrielle's voice as she answered:

"Thanks, Dottie."

She couldn't help being glad her mother remained at the hospital the following evening. She did want to be alone with Peter when she heard him on the air. She felt that in some magical way his voice might bring comfort to her.

Violet had put away the last dish and mopped up the kitchen floor when Gabrielle came down the stairs and into the living room, just shortly before the scheduled time for the broadcast.

Gabrielle clutched her robe sash tightly in her hands and sat as though mesmerized, but her ears were so highly strung that she missed not one cadence of the program. Peter's voice came to her eloquently, naturally, clear—be-lieved. She ached inside with the first word he spoke:

"Thank you," he said, his tone charming, or so it seemed to her. "Now I will sing for the first time on the air my new song 'Love of You' which I wish to dedicate to—Gabrielle."

In a clear rich voice the song was unfolded, sketching a sort of love story and somehow seeming much more lyrical than the usual popular ballad. Peter's voice was really magnificent and Gabrielle scarcely dared breathe.

The new program ended with the playing of another of Peter's compositions, and from the amount of applause, Gabrielle thought there must be a large and appreciative audience. She felt saddened at not being there.

When it was over she automatically switched off the radio. Nothing else could be interesting after that. She sat on, dreaming.

All at once she felt she had to talk with Peter. She had his address—she might write him. . . . But she wanted to hear him, as she just had—only talking directly to her. She wasn't sure that she wanted to say anything to him, except to congratulate him, but she wanted him to say something to her.

Suddenly she thought she'd telephone him.

No one answered when she had given the operator the address and had ascertained Peter's number and heard her ringing. Gabrielle felt too disappointed for words, but she listlessly allowed the call to remain, the operator promising to call her in twenty minutes.

She did, and in twenty minutes more, and twenty minutes more. At ten Gabrielle cancelled her call, fearing Helen would come home. She didn't want her mother to know about the call, although she couldn't have said why.

When Helen came in she was in bed, but she knew when her mother peered in her room. Not wishing to talk to anyone, Gabrielle feigned sleep. She heard her mother getting ready for bed, then all became quiet.

Very softly Gabrielle cried in to her pillow; she felt so lonely.

The days dragged by and Gabrielle spent her time between the house and the hospital. She scarcely saw any of her friends, although Dorothy called often and Bob occasionally. She refused to go anywhere until her father was safe at home, and Bob had to be content with that.

On the day Sam was brought home, she had baked a cake, a lovely large one with thick icing which her father liked. The cake was a potato chocolate one with creamy boiled icing flavored with vanilla. There were nutmeats inside and a few halves on top. Gabrielle surveyed it proudly.

"How'm I doing, Violet?" she demanded, raising amber eyes to the fat old colored woman.

"Dat's as good a one as Ah could bake myself," stated Violet unequivocally. This Gabrielle knew constituted the finest of her compliments.

"I'll bake the biscuits in the morning, too, if you'll let me," announced Gabrielle, taking off the pink and white apron, and smoothing her gray woolen dress.

"Well—" hesitated Violet dubiously.

"Why you said mine were as good as yours this morning!"

The darky grinned from one ear to the other, showing large white teeth. Violet didn't laugh as much as do most colored folks, but when she did it was well worth watching and listening to, thought Gabrielle, grinning back.

"Okay? I can bake them?"

"Okay," answered the Negro, the word sounding so queer on her lips that Gabrielle burst out laughing.

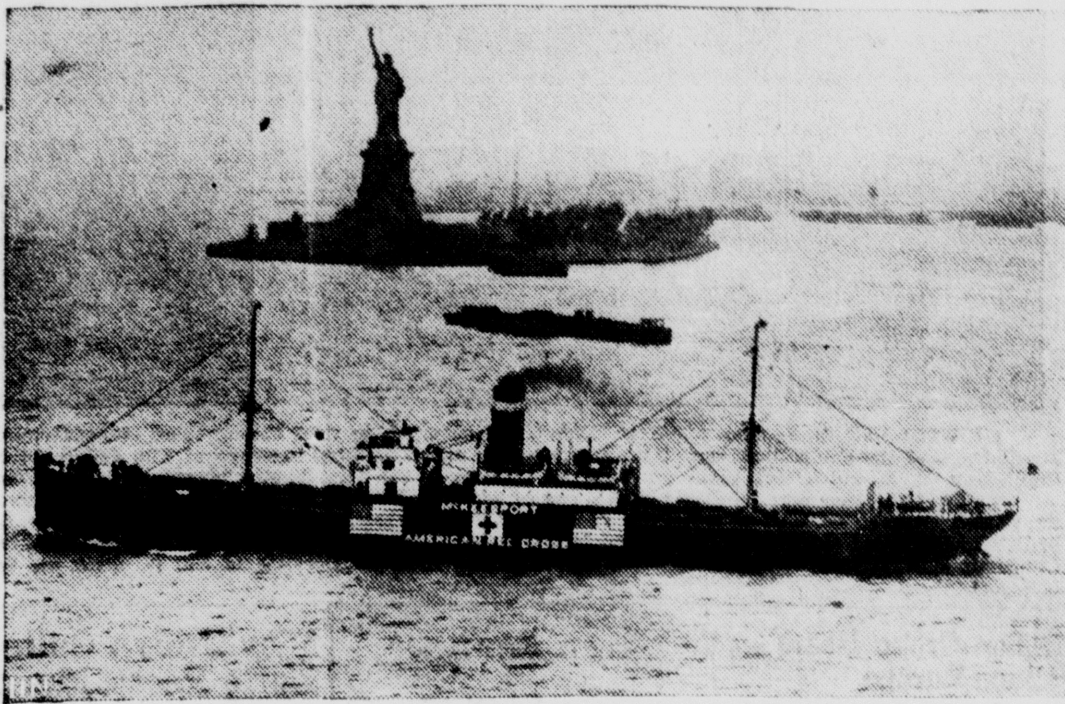

"Here I am teaching you slang, Violet!"

Violet tittered, and avowed: "Don't reckon hit'll hurt me none, honey. Hit's too late now."

Gabrielle went to see if the ambulance had arrived. Mr. Snow was really well enough to come home in the car but Dr. Lee had said that because of the unusually cold weather they were now having it would be best not to take chances.

There was no sign of an ambulance so she went into the front room and stirred the embers in the fireplace, laying a green cedar log on the brass andirons. Almost at once there was an invigorating fragrance in the room. Gabrielle had saved the green logs from the old tree that Jake had removed from in back of the garage. She knew her father would like the odor, and they didn't get much wood except oak.

EPITAPH OF THE CHAMPION YANKEES IS WRITTEN

NEW YORK BIG GUNS SILENCED BY CLEVELAND

Feller Gains 11th Win As Tribe Blasts Yanks In Night Game

BY JUDSON BAILEY
When the World Champion New York Yankees went west, literally, a couple of weeks ago, they also went west figuratively.

There doesn't seem to be any use waiting any longer for them to come home, because they've gone to that place from which champions seldom come back.

Their epitaph was written last night in a score: 7 to 1.

Feller's 11th

That was the margin of the Cleveland Indians' victory, a seventh effort by Bob Feller for his 11th triumph of the season.

That also was the eighth loss in nine games for the champs, who used to whip through the west like a scourge of grasshoppers.

They were four games out of first place when they set sail westward. Today they are nine.

A lot of things are wrong, such as Joe DiMaggio hitting less than 300 for the first time in his life, and in addition the Yanks have some worthy competition for the first time in years.

Cleveland seems to have benefited by getting the Indians' discontent out in the open instead of fermenting in secret and last night's victory was the 11th in 13 games since the upheaval against Manager Ossie Velt.

They backed Feller with an 11-hit attack in which everyone except Ken Keltner participated. Feller himself got a single and batted in two runs to help humiliate three Yankee pitchers. They scored in four of the eight innings in which they went to bat.

Al Milnar, already having 10 victories, was nominated to face the Yankees today.

Increase Lead

The outcome increased Cleveland's distance over the second place Detroit Tigers to two full games. The Tigers and most of the other major league teams were rained out yesterday. The frolic at Cleveland was threatened all day by showers and delayed by more rain for half an hour after the lights were turned on. But 46,637 fans defied the weather and were rewarded.

The only other game to escape was at St. Louis where the Browns battered the Philadelphia Athletics 9-4 with a 12-hit assault that included four home runs. Two of these were by Walt Judd, one was by Harold Clift with two on and the fourth by Don Heffner. With this aid Elden Auker had an easy time bagging the victory on nine hits.

Nation's Net Stars

Play At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, June 25.—Net stars from coast to coast and from England go into competition today as the 38th annual Tri-State tennis tournament gets down to the serious business of shaking out the unseasoned players who still may be champions some day.

Due by airplane from Chicago, where they competed in the national clay courts meet, are Bobby Riggs, national men's singles champion, and Alice Marble of Los Angeles, No. 1 woman tennis player of the world.

Others expected to get into action include Charles Hare of London, who, with Riggs, was given top seeding in the men's doubles opening today.

Plan Qualifiers In Public Links Event

AKRON, June 25.—Large entry lists of the past few years have led the Ohio Public Links Golf association to make tentative plans for district qualifiers before the 1941 public links tournament, instead of permitting all entrants to play the championship course.

This action was taken at the association's meeting last night when Robert Rosenberg, an industrial arts instructor at the DeWitt High school was elected president.

Sanitary Defeats Window Cleaners

The National Sanitary swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Salem Window Cleaning Co. softball team Sunday, winning the first game, 3 to 0, and the second game, 3 to 0.

Dale Ritchie held the Window Cleaners to one hit in pitching the Sanitary to victory in the first game.

NEW YORK.—Irving Eldridge, 134½, New York, outpointed Jimmy Vaughn, 126, Cleveland, (8).

PITTSBURGH.—Fritzie Zivic, 148, Pittsburgh, knocked out Johnny Rinaldi, 143, New York, (10).

YOUNGSTOWN, June 25.—Reggie Myles' pockets bulged today with the top money of the third annual $500 Poland Open golf tournament after the Cleveland tour took the title with 73-71—144 by whipping two threats—the wind and Herman Keiser of Akron Portage Country club.

Myles overcame the wind and equalled par for the 36 holes. Keiser shot 72-73—145.

Defending Titlist Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh finished in a three-way tie for third with Alex Ogilvie of Cleveland and Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh, at 146. Ted Luther, 1938 winner, tied with five other players at 150 to finish in the money.

CANTON BOOSTS LEAD IN LEAGUE

Terriers Out In Front By Three Games In Mid-Atlantic

YOUNGSTOWN, June 25.—Canton's Terriers were out in front of the Mid-Atlantic league pack by three full games today after drubbing the Youngstown Browns, 6 to 1, while the Charleston Senators were taking a 13-to-7 beating at Akron.

Butch Nieman contributed to the Canton cause by socking two homers, one with a man on base.

The Akron victory featured the debut of Outfielder Henry Hoysradt in a Yankee uniform. The newcomer hit the first pitched ball out of the lot with two on in the second inning.

A foul tip ripped a fingernail from the throwing hand of Louis Kahn, Charleston, catcher, forcing him to leave the game.

Fred Schmidt's four-hit pitching highlighted Portsmouth's 3-to-1 win at Dayton. Dayton's run came in the seventh inning on Moon Myer's homer.

Today's schedule: Portsmouth at Dayton, Charleston at Akron, Canton at Youngstown.

College Golf Aces Vie In Tournament

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 25.—One of the keenest battles for medals honors anywhere appeared in the offing today as the 145 competitors in the National college golf championship trained their sights on the last 18 holes of the qualifying competition on the Ekwanok course.

Retiring President Neil Croonquist of Minnesota paced the field yesterday when he wound up with a par 70. That round gave him a single stroke lead over Johnny Burke of Georgetown, the 1938 champion, Warren Berl of Stanford, last year's defeated finalist, Bill Cordingley of Harvard and Bill Clark of Dartmouth.

Exactly 63 of the 145 starters turned in cards of 78 or better.

REDS' MANAGER TALKS BIG ON SMALL MARGIN

McKechnie Proud of His Team's Wins Over Close Rivals

BOSTON, June 25.—For a whose club is leading the National league by a game and a half and has been bouncing between first and third place like a mountain, Adams' apple, Boston manager McKechnie is talking big.

That is to say, it's big talk for McKechnie. All the managers of the Cincinnati Reds said was:

"Those are the teams we have to beat. On successive Sundays we beat the Dodgers and Giants in doubleheaders, which is something we can all be proud of."

Troublesome Foes
Apparently the Scott is little worried by the fact that the Boston Bees and the Phillies are troublesome. He is sending either Ben Derringer, who has won one of two previous starts here, or Whitby Moore to try to eliminate the local difficulty today. Dick Egan, who has two decisions against the Reds, is the Boston pitcher.

The Reds and Bees were frozen and threatened out of the ball park yesterday by the weather and the resulting doubleheader will be played off tomorrow.

Option Player
ST. LOUIS, June 25.—The St. Louis Browns have optioned Bobby Neighbors, 22-year-old shortstop, to Toledo of the American Association. Neighbors was stricken with appendicitis while with San Antonio of the Texas league and his contract was transferred back to the Browns.

M'NEILL COPS TENNIS TITLE

Ex-Kenyon Star Winner In National Clay Courts Meet

CHICAGO, June 25.—Don McNeill, Kenyon college graduate, has made a perfect take-off from the tournament they say is the "springboard" to top national tennis honors—the clay courts championship.

The 22-year-old McNeill won the national clay courts singles championship at River Forest courts yesterday, defeating the No. 1 amateur of the nation, Bobby Riggs, Emulating a forcing game and sharp net offensive, the Oklahoma star downed Riggs 6-1, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3 to stop the Chicagoan's bid for a fourth clay courts title.

NEW GAME FISH COPIES MUSKIE

Cross Species Being Developed at University of Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — A new species of game fish—a cross between a muskellunge and the common pickerel—is being developed by a University of Minnesota ichthyologist.

Dr. Samuel Eddy, assistant professor of zoology at the university, produced the hybrid while conducting a series of experiments for the Minnesota department of conservation.

Although cross-breeding of different species is unusual, he said, there was relatively little difficulty in this instance, Pickerel—Esoc lucius to scientists and no particular prize to anglers—and the muskellunge—Esox masquinongy, the huge "gator-jawed" terror of northern waters—are members of the same genus or branch of the fish family.

The pickerel is prolific and more or less disinclined by discriminating fishermen. But his bigger, meaner brother, the muskie, is a fighter of considerable proportion. His long body and broad tail surface give him tremendous leverage and speed.

Both are rapacious. Dr. Eddy was forced to remove the first spawning of hybrid fry from the laboratory to a pond along the Minnesota river because they "got to fighting all the time." At the time, they were less than a foot long and growing fast.

Dr. Eddy now has another spawning under observation.

It was not yet known, he said, whether the hybrid would prove capable of reproducing kind. It will be some time before that can be determined, Dr. Eddy said.

Rattlin' Good Story

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. — E. C. Creech of St. Augustine drove his automobile over a rattlesnake on the highway and then got out to see if he had killed it.

MEMPHIS KEPT FREE OF CRIME

Boss-Directed City Even Ousts Small-Time Gamblers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — This boss-directed city of 300,000 never has had an underworld of any size or reputation. Today it has none at all. Even the tin horn gamblers have been run out of town.

Not since 1901—when "Red Snapper" Ed Crump rose to power in Tennessee—has Memphis been troubled for any length of time by lawlessness.

Rowdy, reckless Beale Street is still rowdy and reckless, but everything that does occur on this famous Negro avenue is within the law. Repeal of the dry law eliminated bootleggers. Police, under the direction of Chief Will Lee, eliminated everything else illegal. Not even a slot machine or a bingo game can be found—not only on Beale Street but anywhere else in town.

There are so few murders that members of the homicide squad spend most of their time playing checkers, with investigators assigned to burglaries and holdups.

Word Starts Exodus
At one time, a disreputable section sprang up in the south end of the business district. Its population grew until word came down from "the boss" to clean up the area. Every undesirable resident received notice a short time ago to leave town. They left, some by train, some by bus, some by motor car. Others walked or begged rides to other cities. Highway leading from Memphis were crowded.

But that was only the latest of a series of cleanup drives. Bootleggers, hard though they were to apprehend sometimes, found that raids made it unprofitable to operate in Memphis. The result was that drinking "Memphians" really welcomed repeal.

Next came a campaign against the few gamblers who existed. First to suffer were luxurious night clubs on the outskirts of the city where gambling flourished. It took only a few days to close all of them—permanently. Most of the gamblers moved to faraway places, but some set up new establishments just across the Mississippi state line where they still could play host to the Memphis trade. That worked for a while—until Mississippi authorities presumably urged by Memphis officials, staged raids with axes.

AIR FIGHTERS CONTINUE WAR

War of France Ends, But British-Nazi Battle Goes On

With the first week of the war, the government said that there were no casualties or damage in the capital area. No bombs were reported dropped.

The drone of planes was heard, however, and at least one was picked out by a searchlight.

The "cease firing" orders that came, as scheduled, six hours after France yielded to Italy, created dramas of differing sorts among the conquerors and the conquered.

The end was at 1:35 a. m. German and Italian time, (6:30 p. m. Monday, E.S.T.).

France Sad, Germany Exults
France in sorrow ordained this day of national mourning.

In Germany, there was noisy exultation.

The reichsfuehrer was extolled as having brought to a grateful Germany her most glorious victory.

Hitler himself, in a brief proclamation, declared:

"In humility we thank God for his blessing."

He ordered that the bells of the greater reich be rung for seven days and that the national flag be displayed for 10 days to mark the end of war with France, which began Sept. 3 but which broke in on its fury only 46 days ago.

Italy, Germany's partner in war for only two weeks, was more subdued in her celebration.

It was announced in Bordeaux that actual terms of the two armistices would be published 48 hours after the fighting stopped.

Britain already has reported that the German terms include occupation of more than half of France, dissolution of the army and internment of the navy.

Gangway!

PORTLAND, Ore. — Patrolman F. J. Cooney stopped a speeder who buffed:

"Why don't you ask me if I'm going to a fire?"

"Okay," said Cooney. "Are you going to a fire?"

"Yes, I got a telephone call my barn's on fire."

Theater Attractions

Another of the sophisticated romantic comedies, this time an English made film, "Over the Moon" will be the State's Wednesday attraction.

Merle Oberon stars in the story of the modest little English girl who inherits a vast fortune from her grandfather, and with it a flock of social parasites and a whirl in the gay romantic life she had always dreamed of. But her millions bring her to the parting of the ways with her young fiancée, who fears she is heading for destruction under the guidance of new-found friends.

Concluding at the State tonight is the Irene Dunne-Cary Grant comedy hit, "My Favorite Wife," which also features Gail Patrick, Randolph Scott, Donald McBride (hotel manager) and Grady Lutes (Judge). Ranking as the best comedy romance produced this year, the picture is screen entertainment at its best.

At the Grand Wednesday only is the double bill: "Phantom Raiders" with Walter Pidgeon, Florence Rice, Joseph Schildkraut, John Carroll, Donald Meek and Nat Pendleton; and "Granny Get Your Gun" with May Robson, Harry Davenport, Margot Stevenson, Hardie Albright, a tale of hard-bitten western grandmothers who find herself accused of a murder and proves her innocence by bringing in the guilty person.
